A reward of $10.00 will be paid to any person who will return the dog or give information leading to his recovery. Any information sent to R. G. McIntire, East Waterford, Me., will receive prompt attention.

No doubt some of our readers have noticed when at the railroad stations the people coming home from other places with bundles of goods bought away from other towns. For the purpose of the arrival of any train, and you will see so many people who have the appearance of having been to other towns in this State to do shopping. A well known merchant says why is so. We can only account for it by the fact that people are tired of trading in one place. They certainly do not buy cheaper, for Norway and South Portland are selling all kinds of goods and groceries cheaper than they can be obtained in neighboring towns. Dry goods are cheaper, provisions are cheaper, and so on through all the most entire list of goods that enter into consumption. The goods are sold outside the store in large quantities, and the price is very low. This trade has increased wonderfully during the past few years, and the merchants are making more money than ever. Large stocks, and most bargained at wholesale as they sell cheaper than their competitors in other places. There is very little necessity for going out of town, which the members of the post visit to return their sincere thanks.

Little Ella Maine, only seven years old, spun, doubled and twisted a cord of yarn and sent it to the South Portland Fair.

Alma Maple is teaching at the Centre. Miss Maple has a well earned reputation of being one of our first-class teachers. By report of the superintendent, I see that Addie Peck, of our village, has just closed a very successful term at school at Franklin Plantation, near to Hattam, city, Byron, to the village of Hattam, city, to the village of Hattam, city.

We are pleased to learn that a good mill is to be built on Weld Street next spring. It will bring business and new life to our village by giving farmers in the surrounding country a chance to dispose of their surplus grain. From all reports we may expect to see the corn roll into our village another November round. Some prophesy that next winter will soon become a city, and it is a fact that the time will come in the days of another generation.

S. R. Brackett started the school on his return to New York again late on his duties as T. S. Pension Examiner.

Dr. P. W. Wing has sold his stand on Weld Street to the village of Hattam, city. He is a well known and successful farmer, and his stand will be a great benefit to the village.

A correspondent to the Lebanon Journal writes: Arrangements have been completed for a spool-factory at Dixfield that will work annually one thousand spools of white thread, and will employ on weekly hands. It is to be located on Webb's river, and to be run by steam power. The building will be a two-story structure, of wood, with an engine-house of brick, and will be a great benefit to the village.

Enterprising people are beginning to learn the value of advertising the right round. The persistency of those who are not intimidated by the cry of "times," but keep their names ever before the public, will surely place them on the right side in the end.

It is a mistaken notion that a fine site in an eligible location, surrounded by attractive sights, is a superior advertisement for the experience of most enterprising merchants is that it pays better to spend less in rent and more in advertising.
